SCHWEISSEN & SCHNEIDEN: A Showcase for Future Technologies

“Join the Future” is the motto of this year’s world-leading trade fair

From 15 to 19 September, the international industry will gather at SCHWEISSEN & SCHNEIDEN, the world’s leading trade fair at Messe Essen (Germany), to take a collective look at the future of joining, cutting, and surfacing technologies. Under the motto “Join the Future”, more than 800 exhibitors from 44 countries – from young start-ups to market leaders – will present their innovations and ideas. Trade visitors can also look forward to a wide range of opportunities to gain fresh insights and expand their professional networks.

“With our guiding theme ‘Join the Future’, SCHWEISSEN & SCHNEIDEN is focusing on the issues driving the industry: What does the future of the sector look like, and how can it be actively shaped? We are looking forward to an outstanding event that will set new benchmarks,” says Oliver P. Kuhrt, CEO of Messe Essen. Dr.-Ing. Roland Boecking, General Manager of DVS – German Welding Society, adds: “Whether it’s digitalisation, sustainability, or the shortage of skilled labour, the trade fair as the most important international industry gathering delivers solutions for the challenges of today and tomorrow.”

Halls 1 to 5 and the Galeria will focus on welding, with leading exhibitors such as Cloos, EWM, Fronius, OTC/Lorch, and Trumpf. Halls 6 to 8 will highlight cutting technologies, featuring companies such as Baykal, Ficep, Messer Cutting, and MicroStep. In addition, the trade fair covers a wide range of other sectors, including surface technology, gas, equipment and safety, and quality assurance.

Premiere of the IF Digital Award

In cooperation with the non-profit IndustryFusion Foundation and DVS, SCHWEISSEN & SCHNEIDEN 2025 will present the IF Digital Award for the first time to particularly forward-thinking exhibitors. This award recognises cutting-edge products and services that are driving the digitalisation of the industry. Among the 21 participating companies, the trade fair audience will decide who takes home the trophy. Voting for the award will take place via the SCHWEISSEN & SCHNEIDEN app. Each visitor has one vote and will be entered into a draw to win attractive prizes after voting. The award ceremony will take place on the final day of the trade fair, Friday 19 September at 1:00 p.m., at the IndustryFusion Foundation stand (Hall 6, Stand 6D22).

Future Hub: Giving the future a stage

At the Future Hub in Hall 7 (Stand 7G13), trade visitors can expect exciting presentations by top-level experts, in-depth panel discussions, and innovative product showcases. This new stage will spotlight forward-looking topics such as digitalisation, sustainability, and untapped potential in the industry. Over the five days of the trade fair, numerous national and international companies will take the stage, including AIM Alloys, Cavitarc, Fronius, and Spazzolplastica. Visitors can look forward to scientific presentations from research institutes and universities, while also gaining exclusive insights into the industry.

A key highlight comes right at the start of SCHWEISSEN & SCHNEIDEN: On Monday 15 September, international delegations will report on their domestic markets under the motto “Connecting Continents” from 3:00 p.m. onwards, providing valuable inspiration for companies seeking to establish themselves abroad. Messe Essen will welcome delegations from Brazil, Morocco, Slovakia, and China.

The Future Hub will also champion promising newcomers: On Wednesday 17 September from 3:00 p.m., four young companies will present their innovative ideas during the Start-up Pitch. Christina Kleinpaß, Head of Project of SCHWEISSEN & SCHNEIDEN, praises the strong interest in the new presentation platform: “Even in its debut year, the Future Hub has received an excellent response. The programme covers a wide range of topics, and we are delighted that every presentation not only brings concentrated expert knowledge but also an exciting outlook on the future of the industry.”

DVS Congress and Young Welders' Competition

As a partner of SCHWEISSEN & SCHNEIDEN, DVS will again offer a diverse lecture programme with twelve thematic blocks during the DVS Congress on 16 and 17 September. Key topics include quality assurance, automation, and steel and shipbuilding. The congress will be held in the Congress Center West.

Under the umbrella of the Young Welders' Competition, this year will feature not only the national DVS competition "Jugend schweißt" but also the International Welding Competition, where young welding talents will demonstrate their skills. Participants aged 16 to 23 will travel from around the globe to compete. For the first time, SCHWEISSEN & SCHNEIDEN will welcome teams from Ghana and India. The Indian team even marks a double first: it is the first all-female team to compete in the history of the contest.

Themed areas provide comprehensive information

Compact and easily accessible information – SCHWEISSEN & SCHNEIDEN offers valuable insights for trade visitors through numerous themed areas and events:

- International joint stands offer a convenient way to discover products and services from specific countries. This year, exhibitors from China (Halls 3, 4, 6, and 7), France (Hall 6), Japan (Hall 8), South Korea (Hall 6), Taiwan (Hall 8), North America (Hall 1), and Slovakia (Hall 6) will provide unique insights.
- Young Innovators, supported by the German Federal Ministry for Economic Affairs and Energy, presents German start-ups with fresh ideas and new approaches in Hall 3 (Stand 3A47).
- A total of 19 associations from eleven countries will be represented at the joint stand "Associations in Alliance" in Hall 1 (Stand 1D20), providing opportunities to connect with members and build new networks.
- Career Area, a new feature in Hall 6 (Stand 6H21), will offer insights into potential career paths, allowing visitors to speak directly with HR representatives from top companies in the industry.
